Edenred acquires The Mobility House Solutions

- Leading mobility service provider Edenred acquires 100 percent of The Mobility House Solutions
- Expansion of the product and service portfolio in the electric mobility segment
- The Mobility House Solutions, a business unit of The Mobility House, is a leading European provider of technology and solutions for scalable charging infrastructure

Kleinostheim/Munich – Edenred, one of Europe’s leading mobility service providers and the parent company of UTA Edenred, announced today that it has acquired 100 percent of The Mobility House Solutions. The acquisition agreement was signed by Diane Coliche, Global Chief Operating Officer Mobility at Edenred, and Heiko Bayer, Managing Director of The Mobility House Solutions.

The Mobility House Solutions is part of The Mobility House Group and offers turnkey installation and maintenance services for EV solutions. The company has also developed ChargePilot®, an advanced, proprietary smart charging and energy management system. Tailored to the needs of B2B customers in Germany and Austria, it optimizes the total cost of ownership for their business-critical fleets. The system is suitable for both light commercial vehicles and trucks. The Mobility House Solutions has a portfolio of over 5,000 customers, currently manages more than 2,500 vehicle depots, and employs approximately 60 people.

UTA Edenred also benefits from the acquisition of The Mobility House Solutions, further strengthening its position as one of Europe’s leading mobility service providers. In addition to the 360° charging solution UTA eCharge®—which features a charging network of more than 1 million public charging points in Europe—UTA customers will now also be able to draw on The Mobility House Solutions’ expertise in EV charging and smart charging technology.

“UTA Edenred stands by its customers as a reliable mobility partner and also supports them in the electrification of their vehicle fleets. With an even more comprehensive offering of charging infrastructure, turnkey solutions, and smart energy management, we aim to strengthen our position in the electric mobility segment through the acquisition of The Mobility House Solutions,” says Pierre Jalady, General Manager Mobility EMEA at Edenred and CEO of UTA Edenred.

“I am incredibly proud of our team, which has built The Mobility House Solutions into a leading provider of charging and energy management systems for vehicle fleets. Thanks to Edenred’s enormous scale and extensive sales force, our expertise and technology will take this business to the next level across Europe,” says Thomas Raffener, CEO and founder of The Mobility House.

The acquisition also includes commercial partnerships for the provision of electricity, energy management services, and charging hardware by The Mobility House Group to UTA Edenred. The transaction is expected to close in the third quarter of 2026.

Pierre Jalady, General Manager Mobility EMEA at Edenred and CEO of UTA Edenred (from left), Thomas Raffener, Founder & CEO of The Mobility House, Diane Coliche, COO Mobility at Edenred, and Heiko Bayer, Managing Director of The Mobility House Solutions, have now announced Edenred's acquisition of The Mobility House Solutions.

UNION TANK Eckstein GmbH & Co. KG (UTA Edenred) is one of Europe's leading mobility service providers.
